Launching the Arden Research Portal

Arden is delighted to launch the Arden Research Portal and allow the broadest possible access to Arden's research on its corporate clients for potential investors. The portal will contribute to further raising the profile of Arden's corporate clients.

The portal can be found at the following link:

<https://research.arden-partners.com/portal>

Arden has introduced the portal to take full advantage of the free distribution of corporate paid-for research on behalf of its corporate clients and address as broad an audience as allowable under the regulations. Importantly, Arden now provides this research to the universe of all potential institutions that invest in UK equities and engage with Arden's corporate clients.

For investors, Arden's latest research reports and associated data can all be searched and accessed in one place, providing a hub for Arden's overall stock coverage that is available through a simple registration process.

For Arden's corporate clients, recognising that direct investor contact with companies is increasing, a link to Arden's Research Portal can be advertised and marketed on the investor pages of client websites and other company literature, more effectively capturing investor interest, providing more accessible forecast financial information on the company and sustaining investor engagement to fully understand the investment case for the company. Arden is one of the first brokers to make its research so widely available and allow a direct link from company websites to its portal, supporting an increasing profile with investors for its clients. This is in addition to the promotion of the company through Arden's research and sales teams.

For further information on Arden's offering and the benefits of the Arden Research Portal, please contact your sales or corporate finance representative at Arden.

Arden is a dedicated corporate adviser and multi-service stockbroker
